The power firm is negotiat-reduce the voltage to 115 KV for local consumption. It was reported. For its most recent contract covering the county only a 100-foot right of way was needed for the 115 KV line.

A trio of MTP officials appeared to begin negotiations with the supervisors for a new contract for the county security patrol to police the buffer zone.
Their proposals this time spell out in detail the duties of the patrol force and it was agreed the supervisors should first get prices on replacing the two pickup trucks and one automobile before the deal is final.
Repairs also are to be made to the two-way radio and vehicles installed as they are under the NASA police force as well as the sheriff's office.

The MTP was indicated a change order will be made in the contract if the supervisors agree to take back the security patrol from the Sheriff's Office. The county is now paying $100 a month for the security patrol.
Last year additional

Chamber dimers told of airport potential

About 140 persons attending Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner at Bay-Waveland Youth Club Tuesday heard a very favorable forecast of the economic out-look for the county airport near Waveland.

James Nablin, economist with Michael Baker, Jr., Inc., Jackson engineering firm presented a report on the airport which would show that the airport would be a major asset to the county. He pointed out that the airport was a major asset to the county and that it would be a major asset to the county.

Specific probable economic growth predicted by Nablin included air oriented light manufacturing firms with 125 employees would be located in the airport vicinity within five years. This forecast is based on recent studies of similar facilities. With 50 to 65 percent employed at the airport this would account for $500,000 a year in retail sales. In addition, transient aircraft average about $70 a day in local payments for fuel, food, lodging, etc., and should account for $750,000 a year from Hancock County and a $200,000 increase in taxes. The economist, on the basis that 60 percent of construction costs goes for labor, pointed out that labor costs for construction would exceed the county's share of over-all costs.

Pointing up possibilities he used Forest, Miss., as an example. A major manufacturing firm made its move to that area under a BAWI bond program contingent on Forest constructing a small general aircraft airport for transient and company aircraft. The airport was constructed with $74,000 in cash to the U.S. government and slightly more to the city. As a result, direct federal taxes today amount to more than $74,000 and the municipality's

Ask fund switch in beach rd. job

Steps to clear matching funds for repairs to the beach road, extensively damaged by Hurricane Betsy last Sept. 10, were initiated by the board of supervisors Monday.

On the motion of Delph Kellar, seconded by Jack Lutz, a resolution was adopted calling on State Rep. Walter J. Phillips and State Sen. James Rogers to introduce a local and private bill at the current legislative session to transfer not more than $300,000 from the coastal land clearing fund to a special fund created to match federal aid for the project.

County Engineer George Wier said the order calling up the matching funds is necessary for negotiations to proceed with the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for the repair work under the Federal Emergency Relief Fund Act.

Survey work is now in progress and will require about six weeks to complete. The area covered at the Boyce Caddy end of the road and moved into the Bay St. Louis north section early this week. After the field

Piers? building and how?

Spring is here and so are thoughts of rebuilding these piers washed away by Betsy.

The board of supervisors voted on Monday to authorize a rebuilding of the pier right after the hurricane damage to the area last fall. The idea was to keep the coastal clear of any obstructions to the big repair job ahead.

This week the supervisors got a request to permit rebuilding on the North Beach section of Bay St. Louis where damage to the seawall was mild and repairs will be less drastic in scope.

While some of the board was inclined to approve reconstruction on the North Beach, Supervisor Delph Kellar asked the board to (Cont. on Page 4-A)

Berm critics due hearing

That sand berm the Corps of Engineers proposed to build on a temporary protection to the seawall from Clermont Harbor to Ballentine Street in Bay St. Louis appears headed for some rocky sailing before it will be realized.

W.D. Guice, Biloxi attorney for a group of Bay-Waveland beachfront property owners opposed to the plan, is to appear before the board of supervisors at 10 a.m. Monday.

R.G. Hubbard, Jr., president of the supervisors, informed the board this week of Guice's request. He also reported that a group of property owners back from the beach are circulating a petition in support of the berm.

Supervisors on March 7 gave public notice that unless pier pilings are removed in 30 days the county will have them taken out for a distance of 50 feet from the seawall. The Engineers have asked that the area be cleared and ready for construction of the berm to start May 1.

State Rep. Walter J. Phillips asked the supervisors last Monday what type of concern they were feeling from beachfront owners for the sand berm. (Cont. on Page 4-A)

SHOOTING
The Moon!

In the countdown for testing the Saturn II rocket booster at NASA's Mississippi Test Facility in Hancock County, the Mississippi Gulf Coast makes space history.

It couldn't have been more exciting when the cow jumped over the moon. The Le Moyne Brothers, Iberville and Bienville, who explored these waters 250 years ago, could not have dreamed that this spot one day would participate as a jumping off place to put a man on the moon.

Nor can we foresee what may come of this venture into space. Men who explore the unknown cannot foretell the ultimates. When Copernicus (1473-1543) first sprang the theory that the planets revolved around the sun, and that the turning of the earth on its axis accounted for the illusion of rising and setting stars, he could not have imagined man's excursion to the moon.

After all, had it not been for Edison and Einstein, we might not have electricity, atom bombs and a space ship in Hancock County.

The world has been vastly changed by scientific research, inventions and innovations. Primitive man designed the wheel; modern man, the automobile, flying machine and now spacecraft. With feet on the ground and heads in the stars, it has taken many men thousands of years to put Gemini V into orbit and fire Saturn V into flight.

The journey to the moon is likely to make that orb less romantic to lovers and poets. Though the conquest of the infinite is unpredictable, nothing is impossible in these fantastic times, that does not infringe upon the laws of nature. As man reveals the unknown, harnesses the elements and leaps to the moon, science achieves its supreme adventure, to perform another American Miracle.

Contributions to the fund proper for the children of the Provisional Government in Tokyo were collected with greatest liberality at the Station of the S. & O. on Friday the 10th of May. Just before the time of Mr. Josiah Allen in Bay St. Louis, 28 members from Ocean Springs, Edisto, Wadsworth and Bay St. Louis attended the event.

Mrs. Catherine Luther, Charles, Frederick and Maria Rose Burdette, Gilbert Gayles, Jr., and Corbin Russell, the national headquarters committee in connection with the fund, proposed Mrs. Luther begin the proceedings of a city in the immediate future to present the funds to the children in May.

Next month's meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. U. Kennedy in Ocean Springs, P. U. Kennedy is a Quaker and says they do not hold what they call the human race.

Ladner signs with USM

"Wendall can make All American at Southern Miss just as well as he can at any other college in the country."

So said Leo Floyd, head basketball coach at the University of Southern Mississippi, speaking before nearly 200 persons in Poppa Ferry Restaurant at Biloxi Monday night.

Occasion was Hancock North Central's annual athletic banquet highlighted by the signing of Wendall Ladner, said to be the most sought after prep school basketball player in the country, by Southern Miss. Wendall has been mulling over offers from every top college in the nation for the past month. His brother, Berlin, also a HNC graduate, is already a mainstay at Southern.

A dynamic speaker, Floyd said the basketball program at Southern Miss has just started rolling and that next year he expected the college to have "the greatest show in the country" playing some of the top teams in the nation.

He called HNC coach Roland Ladner "the best coach in the state of Mississippi."

Following the evening's program Wendall signed the contract, worth about $4,000 in tuition, etc., amid the flashing of cameras by newsmen from throughout the state.

Coch Ladner credited HNC superintendent Chester H. Blalock with much of the credit for the school's success in athletics. "They wouldn't have heard of us if it weren't for Mr. Blalock," he commented.

Although most of the state champion Hawks are graduating Ladner said he was looking forward to another big season in 1966-67 citing particularly Wayne Knight, 6-4, Kenneth Hoda, 6-1, and freshmen Eddie Peterson, 6-6, and Gerald Schuler, 6-5.

Sometime piling up 55 points per game, to break all school records, Wendall has amassed a three year record of 3,364 points and 2,619 rebounds in 122 games. He averaged 27.57 points and 21.46 rebounds per game. He also lettered as a freshman but no statistics are available.

Among the honors he has received are all-state, all-south Miss, and all-district, all-conference for the last three years; most valuable player in Gulf Coast Conference, 1965-66 and picked on all-tournament team in virtually every invitational tournament North Central has entered during the past three years.

He set a new individual scoring record of 50 points, later breaking his own record scoring 55. He set a new season record this year with 1,484 points. His three-year record is an all-time high.
